KW Laser hair removal

Meta: Laser hair removal is an effective method that permanently reduces unwanted hair from the face, chest, back, legs, and arms. Learn how hair reduction works.

Laser hair removal is the most effective form of hair removal available. Treatments are FDA-cleared to reduce hair and effectively treat unwanted hair on the face, chest, back, legs, and arms. Laser hair removal is virtually painless even when treating the body's most sensitive areas like the bikini area, upper lip, nipples, and underarms. With cosmetic advancements, laser hair removal is a quick, painless way to remove hair from the body.

Laser hair removal is also a perfect solution for both men and women who want to reduce body hair and free themselves from expensive razors, painful plucking, and excessive wax treatments that yield minimal results. This hair reduction method is quick and painless, with no downtime necessary. It provides long-lasting results and keeps skin silky smooth. Contact the staff at Dr. Robert Bowen's office to schedule a complimentary consultation to learn more about laser hair removal.

Laser Hair Removal Before and After*

Laser hair removal before and after pictures show the results possible with this hair reduction treatment. Each patient achieves smooth skin and permanent hair reduction. As with any cosmetic treatment, results will vary.*

How Does Laser Hair Removal Work?

Laser hair removal works by using a laser with a specific wavelength, precisely calibrated to penetrate the hair follicle. The laser safely and effectively travels over the skin without causing damage to the epidermis while simultaneously damaging the hair follicles below. When the hair follicles are in their active growth stage, the melanin located in the hair's root will absorb the laser's thermal energy. This thermal energy will permanently damage the hair follicle, disabling it, and preventing future hair growth. The technician will target the hair not in the active growth phase during the first treatment in the second round of treatments.

Is Laser Hair Removal Permanent?

Laser hair removal is FDA-approved for permanent hair reduction. It works to destroy the hair follicle, preventing the hair from growing back in the future. Individual experience may vary, but once you achieve silky smooth skin after your treatment plan is complete, you typically enjoy permanent results.*

Laser Hair Removal Cost

Laser hair removal cost in Martinsburg, West Virginia depends on the laser used, the treatment area, and the number of treatments needed to achieve lasting smooth, bare skin. During a complimentary consultation with Dr. Robert Bowen, you can discuss laser hair removal costs with a knowledgeable technician. They will customize a treatment plan that fits your budget and achieves your goals.

Does Laser Hair Removal Hurt?

Laser hair removal tends to be painless, depending on the type of laser used during treatments. It also depends on the treatment area and the skill of the laser technician. At Dr. Robert Bowen's office, our highly skilled laser technicians provide painless laser hair removal using our laser system. During the treatment, the device will cool the skin and protect the surrounding tissue while also effectively removing unwanted hair.
