CoolSculpting Greenwood Village

How long is it going to last? CoolSculpting Greenwood Village

The results of CoolSculpting are supposed to last a lifetime. The stomach area is the lone exception, which may require two or more treatments to achieve optimal results. Consult your physician about how many sessions you'll need in the end.

Unlike other weight-loss treatments, fat cells are totally eliminated rather than diminished. The fat cells targeted during CoolSculpting treatments are reduced by an average of 20%, according to the ASPS. Some people may experience decreases of up to 40%, which is more likely in smaller treated areas such as the arms.

Talk to your provider if you want to target the same area again in the future. The charges will most likely be the same as they were for your initial therapy.

Is insurance going to cover it?

CoolSculpting is a cosmetic (aesthetic) procedure. CoolSculpting and other aesthetic treatments are not covered by insurance. You can inquire about any discounts or payment plans that your provider may provide to assist defray the costs of your treatment.

CoolSculpting is a technique that involves freezing fat cells.

CoolSculpting, also known as cryolipolysis, is a noninvasive medical technique. It aids in the removal of excess fat cells from beneath your skin without the need for surgery.

During a CoolSculpting session, a cosmetic surgeon or other CoolSculpting-trained physician clamps down on a roll of fat and cools it to a freezing temperature.

Your body normally removes the frozen, dead fat cells through your liver in the weeks following the therapy. Within a few weeks of starting treatment, you should start seeing results, and after a few months, you should notice complete outcomes.

CoolSculpting is a non-invasive treatment. This eliminates the need for cutting, stitching, anesthesia, or recuperation time.

CoolSculpting Centennial

CoolSculpting for stomach cost CoolSculpting Centennial

One of the most typical CoolSculpting treatment sites is the stomach. Due to age and life events such as pregnancy, it can be tough to get rid of excess fat cells in this area.

The cost of CoolSculpting for the stomach area is expected to be $1,500 per session. For the stomach area, some physicians recommend two treatments.

Each therapy lasts anywhere from 35 to 60 minutes. Although the results are permanent, some patients opt for repeated treatments to get rid of even more fat cells.

Time to Recover

According to the ASPS, full outcomes take four to six months to see. During this time, your body will work to eliminate the remaining fat cells that have been targeted.

Pain and numbness are two temporary side effects of CoolSculpting. These usually only last a few weeks.

There will be no need for you to take time off work. You may, however, choose to take the day of your treatment off to prevent the stress of returning to work after the procedure.

Overall, you should only spend a few hours every treatment at your provider's office. If you're treating various body parts, you may need more time.
