HOW DOES MICRONEEDLING WITH RADIO FREQUENCY WORK?

The Morpheus 8 combines two advanced technologies, Fractionated Radio Frequency and Micro-needling into one facial or body treatment. During the procedure, microscopic needles puncture the skin to stimulate natural skin rejuvenation via a process known as controlled wound healing. In response, the body creates more collagen and elastin (the structural proteins that keep the skin young and healthy-looking.)¹

In addition to the micro-needles, Morpheus 8 uses Fractionated RF energy to heat the tissue. This causes the tissue to contract (tighten) and further increases the production of collagen. ²

Unlike other RF Micro-needling treatments that superficially penetrate the skin, Morpheus 8 targets the deepest layers of skin tissue. The device is FDA cleared to rejuvenate the skin by subdermal adipose remodeling—remodeling of fat below the skin’s surface—to achieve optimal results.

Remodeling fatty tissue is especially effective for shaping and contouring the lower face and neck. The treatment is commonly utilized to improve the appearance of jowls, wrinkling, skin laxity, and fat accumulation in the submental-neck and chin-region.
