Our treatments can include:

1. Injections into the feet, legs, and lower back for neuropathy symptoms and problems in the lower extremity or into the wrist, forearm, and neck region for upper extremity neuropathy. Our injections include vitamins and homeopathic medications to help give nutrients to the nerve to allow them to heal and function properly. We also do regenerative medicine injections using plasma or human biologic tissue to help accelerate the healing and regenerative process.
2. Electrical stimulation (EMS) - where we place electrodes at specific points to help the nerves fire correctly. This treatment is done in the office, and we give patients a 'REBUILDER' unit for home care that is specifically designed to help with neuropathy.
3. Red light therapy - acts on the mitochondria in our cells to stimulate increased cellular energy (ATP) production (among other mechanisms), thus giving energy to the cell to allow for healing. This painless and pleasant therapy is performed in the office for as little as 20 minutes.
4. Diet and nutrition - we focus on improving a patient's diet, and nutrition, plus incorporating specific vitamins and minerals to help with the pain and symptoms of neuropathy.
5. Ozone therapy Bags - with this treatment we place your hands, arms, feet, or legs into specifically sealed bags. We then run Ozone through the bags for approximately 20 minutes. Ozone therapy helps with the healing of wounds, helps regenerate tissue and cells, helps with pain and reduction, and decreases inflammation.
6. Qutenza - this is an amazing pharmaceutical product that uses natural capsaicin. This treatment is covered by most medical insurances. The treatment includes patches that are placed around the foot and toe region for approximately 30 minutes. This treatment is done 4x per year. To learn more about Qutenza go to www.qutenza.com

HAVE QUESTIONS? WE CAN HELP. LET'S TALK!

TYPES OF NEUROPATHY

Peripheral neuropathy can affect one nerve (mononeuropathy), two or more nerves in different areas (multiple mononeuropathy) or many nerves (polyneuropathy). Carpal tunnel syndrome is an example of mononeuropathy. Most people with peripheral neuropathy have polyneuropathy.

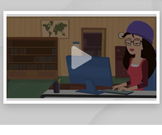
Every nerve in your peripheral system has a specific function, so symptoms depend on the type of nerves affected.

NERVES ARE CLASSIFIED INTO:

SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS OF PERIPHERAL NEUROPATHY

Signs & Symptoms of Peripheral Neuropathy

If autonomic nerves are affected, signs and symptoms might include:



- Heat Intolerance
- Excessive Sweating Or Not Being Able To Sweat
- Bowel, Bladder Or Digestive Problems
- Changes In Blood Pressure, Causing Dizziness Or Light-Headedness

It's time to get the results you deserve!

STRUGGLING WITH NEUROPATHY?
